

Tracking

Use the following chart to track the progress of your disciples. When you complete a lesson, check it off so that you'll be able to remember what you did. If your disciple has already gone through some of these lessons with someone else, you might want to get that info so that you can record it here.

At the beginning of the year, you might look over your disciple's progress with them and see what they would be most excited to learn about next. You could also ask your disciple what topics they would love to explore that The Compass doesn't address.

The goal is that each disciple would be able to go through every one of these vital lessons during the typical four years of college. But not every student is at college for four years, and some start discipleship later. In those cases, we would suggest that you pray about which lessons would be most beneficial for your disciple before they graduate. Remember to make sure to consider giving them a good balance of lessons from each of the three sections.

Exposure to Sharing

Every time you go sharing with your disciple, check off one of these boxes below. We would love to give every student 20 evangelism experiences before they graduate.
